All the news that's print to give fits

by Lou Joseph

Spring is finally here! And wasn't the PBA Spring Sectional a great way to welcome the season? The hospitality was, as always, amazing (a la Barb and Ken Bergman); the bridge was great, the venue was great, the entertainment was great (I say that in all modesty, but as a charter member of the Cubic Zirconia Life Master Theatre I can honestly report that our production of 'Who Wants' to be a Life Master? was one of our best!) I suppose the single, loudest, longest laugh was in response to the famous "biggest whine in the PBA question" - for those who missed the performance, the correct answer was "Anyone who plays with Arlene Port." Of course Arlene couldn't wait to tell me how sorry everyone felt for her - poor, poor Arlene. Well let me tell you something. Last Monday I arrived for the current PBA lesson series to find scrawled on the easel "Lou Joseph is a bum." Even if my spies had not told me Arlene had written it, I would have figured it out by recognizing the COC font it had been written in (Crabby Old Cow.) So don't think that I don't get my share of aggravation folks. It is NOT as once sided as a certain person would have you believe!

Anyways, the success and smooth running of the tournament is only due to all the hard work and effort behind the scenes - the Bergmans (of course) with the help of Ron Franck, Ernie Retetagos, Jane Marshall, Darlene Mannheimer, Bill Holt, Brad Craig, everyone who baked and cooked, and the players who attended. No wonder the PBA Sectionals are world renowned!

Moving on, May is here. Mark your calendars now for Friday evening, May 17, the annual PBA Awards Party (see page 2.) Come and celebrate your achievements, your partner's achievements, your friends' achievements - it's always a grand night of food, fun and festivities. Also, start getting your team together for the annual Fossick-Goodman team game scheduled for Sunday June 2 at the Edgewood County Club (see page 2.) So much bridge to enjoy - what could be better?

POSTAGE DUE

This month we continue our new column which we hope all players will take advantage of. There are many players who are no longer able to get about, and would love to hear from their old friends, even if it's just a card to say they remember.

DR. NORMAN WILLIAMS

If you know someone who is confined and would like to hear from their old friends, please e-mail Arlene at aport220@comcast.net or Lou at louismjoseph@comcast.net along with the name and address, and we will be happy to publish the information. Thanks!

BRAND NEW POST!!! - ASK ERNIE

As mentioned last month, The Post Mortem is intended to be for ALL players, novices and experts alike. In the interest of hearing from less experienced and advancing players, the PBA has instituted a NEW column - call it advice for the bridgelorn, call it what you want. We are calling it ASK ERNIE. Ernie Retetagos has agreed to accept bidding and play questions of your choice, which he will review and answer in later issues of the Post Mortem. You may send them to him directly eret@verizon.net, to either of the PM editors (e-mail addresses on the masthead.) or click on the "Ask Ernie" link on the PBA web-page.

There must be a million questions that people have, and that Ernie we be willing to help you with. Here's an example of a good question: Ernie, how should the following hand be bid to get to (whatever you should have gotten to; citing both hands for reference.)

Here's an example of a bad question: Ernie, how come you didn't win the Compact Knockout at the Spring Sectional?

An article by PJ Prabhu on page 8 reflects the in-depth analysis you will get from Ernie when you submit a problem.

Opening lead: DK

You ruff with S9 and East follows with D4.
Plan the play.

Answer

It appears that the Heart suit will yield the tricks needed to make the contract. The main problem involves the trump suit. From the bidding and the opening lead, it appears that West started with length in the Diamond suit along with the A and K. Hence, it appears that East is more likely to be long in the other suits. Therefore, it is reasonable to finesse against East for the trump Q.

Under normal circumstances, it would be proper to Start with the SA and follow with the ST and finesse by playing low or SJ. This protects against loosing a trick to a stiff SQ with West. However, if the finesse looses, West will cash the DA, defeating the contract. Hence, is there a better plan?

The answer is yes. You should lead the ST at trick 2. If East follows small, play small from hand. If the ST wins the trick and all follow, play the SA, ruff a club to get to your hand, and pull the last trump. If the Heart suit breaks 3-2 or 4-1, you will make an overtrick. If you lose the second trick to West's SQ, he cannot cash the DA since SA is in dummy to ruff the D. Nor can West lead anything else to defeat you. Once you gain the lead, you'll ruff a Diamond with the SA, return to hand with a C ruff, and pull the remaining trumps and run the H suit. In all, you will make five Spade tricks, two ruffs in dummy, four Heart tricks and the CA for a total of 12 tricks. If West returns a Spade at Trick 3, you will not be able to ruff a second Diamond and will need the Heart suit to break no worse than 4-1 (you could try for a D-H squeeze against West, but the likelihood of such a squeeze is very small). This play succeeds against any 2-2 or 3-1 break in the Spade suit. If Spades break 4-0, you will most likely go down on good defense. Here is the full deal:

Ernie Retetegos: 4 Hearts. I think this is pretty clear cut. If partner has as little as K x x x or A J x of spades and out, we have a play for 4 spades. If I don't bid 4 hearts, West might. This is the kind of hand where each side could take a lot of tricks.

Marvin Rulin: Double. The preempt did its job, any bid I make could be right or wrong. Although 4 hearts describes my distribution my spade suit is quite weak and my heart K is worthless. If partner has xxx in spades and bids 4 spades we'll be in trouble. If he bids 5 clubs we'll be in 5 Diamonds which also may be set too many vulnerable. Pass is too wimpy so I'll double and bid 4 Diamonds if partner bids 4 Clubs. Double also lets partner leave it in if he has a couple of heart tricks and values in clubs. Maybe we can get lucky and find partner with 4 spades and an honor.

Herb Sachs. I bid four diamonds; the problem starts now! if LHO bids 4h and partner passes I have a real problem because I have bid my best suit; I will probably pass. If LHO passes and partner bids 4h I have an easy 4spade call; four level bids are always made under pressure I hope we do not succumb to the pressure and work out what to do; searching for a vulnerable spot at the four level may end in a huge number; I stick with my four diamond bid and hope for the best.

Richard Katz: 4diamonds and over 4hearts I bid 4 spades. It is a rule that one must go for a number when one is 6/5 and vul.

Asim Ulke: I bid 3S. I don't think I have the hand to take it to the 4 level by bidding 4H. 4D bid risks losing the spade suit and is a level higher. If partner has a spade fit and a couple of tricks will raise 3S to game.

Steve Nolan 4H. I don't think any call is guaranteed to work; this is more descriptive than the alternatives.

Stan Ruskin Pass We could have a slam or we could be going for a large minus if I bid. My answer could be different if we are playing match points or IMPs although I think I would Pass at either (the only other option would be to bid at match points – probably 4H since you conveniently gave me that option). If we have a game or more, my partner will bid something and we can go from there. The higher level that I am forced to enter the auction, the better my hand generally is – particularly Vul vs. non Vul. I know that it is hard to believe, but pass is also a bid!!!!

Arlene Port: 4H The worst thing about my bid is that I have the survey which shows the best bid to make. Unfortunately, I am a very slow learner and to be honest, I would bid 4 hearts. I would probably justify this bid by making believe that I had a good spade suit. I could always back this up by saying I had the QC in with my spades. No problem. Hey! I did pick the #1 answer after all.

Paul Caplan 4D not strong enough to double and correct clubs to diamonds. bidding 4 hearts risks getting to high. you have some values and a fair suit over partners 4 heart cue bid you can try 4 spades.

Jane Marshall 4 hearts. If partner says 4 spades, I pass. If partner says 4NT or 5 clubs, I bid 5 diamonds. The diamonds are so much better than the spades that I do not want to bid 3 spades and hear partner raise me on a doubleton spade.

Robert Zimmermann: 4H. It's always nice when you have a bid that describes your hand.

Bill Holt : Dbl. I am going to double, and plan on pulling clubs to diamonds. Equal level conversion applies here (doubling, then converting a club bid to diamonds ONLY - showing diamonds and the other major) so partner will know I have two places to play. 4d might be our last making contract, and with 9 working highs I don't think I am high-card strong enough to Q-bid this hand. And who knows, 3HX might be our spot.

PJ Prabhu 4H. The sixth Diamond makes up for the minimum in high cards. As little as AJx of Spades and two Diamonds with partner gives us a good chance for game. Vulnerable at IMPs, it is the clear choice. It is less clear at match points; but, for lack of a good alternative, I'd bid 4H at MP as well.

Gail Carns: 4H I hope it works
Jim Bachelder: PASS! If LHO passes, partner, with values, should take action with a double. I would certainly "Michaels" over 1H with this hand but 4H over 3H is a little rich for me. What do you think of your prospects if partner holds: JX, JXX, XX, QTXXXX and you hear 5C?

BAD NEWS - GOOD NEWS POST

BAD NEWS: I never thought that I would ever lower myself to the level of that person (LJ) who has been torturing me in print lo these many years. Alas, I must admit that I have, indeed, recently reached that place of shame. To be specific, last week I wrote "LOU JOSEPH IS A BUM" on his teaching notepad for all his students to see. Woe is me!! How will I ever get over the pain of writing that semi-terrible message?

GOOD NEWS:

- It took me no time at all to recover.
- It made me feel so good
- Best of all, the sentence was well constructed and the word "bum" was spelled correctly.

(lou, erasing this the first time didn't work. I remembered it verbatim.))

Effective immediately, there is a new PBA hotline number: Call 412-219-CLUB (2582). Many Thanks to Maryanne McNeirney, who maintained the old number for 25 years!
